

Surveyor 6 Off for Moon

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Surveyor 6 spacecraft raced today toward an intended soft-landing in a rugged area almost smack in the middle of the moon's visible face.

Its planned touchdown is in the Sinus Medii (Central Bay), considered a prime astronaut landing site despite its roughness. Surveyor 6 carried a television camera and a small automatic chemistry set to analyze the lunar soil.

The 2,223-pound mechanical marvel soared into space from Cape Kennedy at 2:39 a.m. (EST) today aboard an Atlas-Centaur rocket. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported early phases of the flight were near-perfect as Surveyor 6 started its 65-hour, 231,416-mile journey, its sensors locked on the sun for guidance.

Launch officials reported tracking data showed the rocket had been very accurate in sending the spider-shaped craft into space and that only a minor firing of its midcourse motor later today would be required to place it on target.

If all goes well, the Surveyor will reach the moon about 7 p.m. Thursday.

The launching was the second in a busy space week for the United States. On Sunday, the third applications technology satellite was fired from the cape into a stationary orbit over Brazil where it is to conduct experiments in communications, navigation and weather study.

An East Coast-West Coast doubleheader is scheduled Thursday. The first Saturn 5 super-rocket, being groomed to boost astronauts to the moon, is set for liftoff from the cape at 7 a.m., and the Esca 6 weather satellite is to rocket into space at 12:37 p.m. from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

The lengthy countdown on the 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 started Monday night.

In another launching, the Air Force Monday night fired a Minuteman 2 intercontinental range military missile from Cape Kennedy to test a new Mark 12 warhead system.

NASA hopes Surveyor 6 will break the even-number jinx in the series. Surveyors 1, 3 and 5 soft-landed on the moon, but Nos. 2 and 4 failed.

Benjamin Milwitsky, Surveyor program manager, said the three successful Surveyors have certified as safe three of the four sites which are considered the best landing spots for American astronauts.

Surveyor 6's target, about 190 miles north of the large crater Ptolemaeus is the one not yet photographed. Both Surveyors that failed had been aimed for that area.

Officials planning Apollo man-to-the-moon shots want a string of landing zones across the lunar equator, evenly spaced so that a new target can be selected in case the original launch date is postponed.

Daylight conditions determine the sites and the launch periods. The shadow of darkness moves across the moon during a 14-day lunar night at the rate of 13 degrees daily. The four sites selected are spaced about 26 degrees apart in a band to permit a manned lunar landing mission to be postponed three times and rescheduled at two-day intervals.

Surveyors 1 and 3 explored separate zones in the huge Ocean of Storms in the western portion of the moon, and Surveyor 5 photographed an area in the Sea of Tranquility in the east.

The United States has more telephones than the rest of the world combined.

Who pays for a college education?

Most people would say students and their families—through tuition fees. But tuition pays only about 1/3 of what it costs a college to educate a student.

The other 2/3? The colleges must get that from other sources.

From you, for example. Give to the college of your choice.

Engineers Delay Lake Fee a Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Engineers announced Monday they would delay for one year, or until Jan. 1, 1969, plans for fees to build or maintain private docks, swimming platforms or other floating facilities at federal reservoirs built by the engineers.

The action has been requested by Reps. Ed Edmondson, Carl Albert and Tom Steed, Oklahoma Democrats, authors of bills to prevent such fees.

Engineer officials, announcing the action through Edmondson, said it would postpone the fees for a year in order to provide time for Congress to conduct hearings on the bills.

The Oklahomaans, in a statement, called the action "a significant first round victory" in their fight to eliminate fees at Army Engineer reservoirs.

The bill by Edmondson and various other House members would prohibit existing admission fees at some 168 locations at 57 reservoirs and would also prohibit the planned mooring-docking fees.

Sens. A. S. Mike Monroney and Fred R. Harris, Oklahoma Democrats, joined the House members in a statement pledging to continue "to push for passage of the bill to completely eliminate these dock permit fees, and entrance and admission fees at Corps reservoirs."

Monroney and Harris have introduced similar bills banning the fees. Hearings on them by the Senate Public Works Committee are scheduled for early next year.

State Welfare Funds Short, Says Blaylock

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Welfare Commissioner Len Blaylock said Monday that funds appropriated the Welfare Department by the 1967 General Assembly were insufficient to finance the department's programs for the current fiscal year.

Blaylock made the statement in an annual report to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller on the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1967. Blaylock said department expenditures had increased almost $15 million over the amount spent during the previous year. He said two welfare grants totaling $12 per welfare client last year and two increases in nursing home allowances totaling $35 per patient were responsible for the increase in expenditures.

"It appeared before the fiscal year ended that the appropriation of the 1967 General Assembly for welfare programs was insufficient to meet the needs of the fiscal year 1967-68," Blaylock said.

Blaylock said in the report that an average of 62,768 persons per month had received welfare assistance totaling more than $55 million during the last fiscal year.

Rusk to Tell Why Silence on Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk will explain in a private Senate committee session why he doesn't want to talk to senators in public about the Vietnam war.

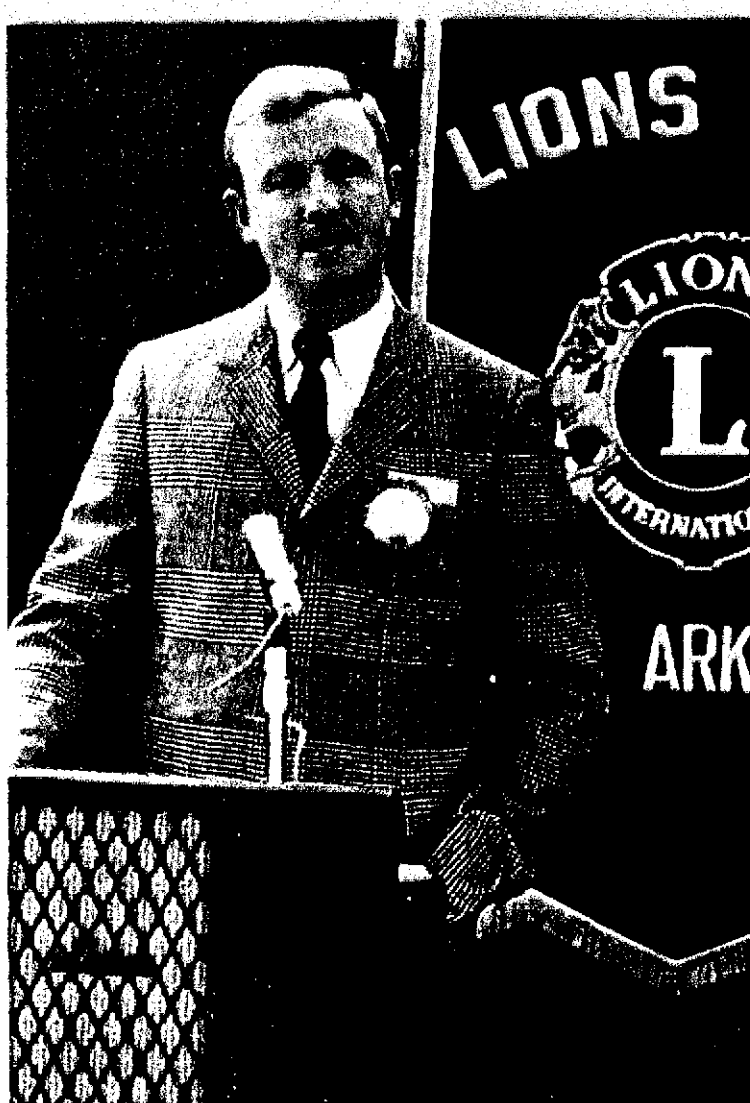

Rusk was scheduled today to face the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which invited him to tell members why he has consistently turned down the panel's invitations to testify publicly on Vietnam policies.

Some members of the Foreign Relations panel are leading Senate critics of the war, including Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.

Another member, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has said President Johnson should give Rusk a choice of testifying publicly or resigning and Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., has said Rusk should step out to improve relations between the administration and Congress on the war issue.

Rusk has said previously he doesn't think any public testimony before the committee could be complete.

Lions Club Meet

JOHN RUSS

John Russ, public relations director for Henderson State College, was speaker at Monday's Lions Club meeting at Town and Country. He was presented by Claud Byrd.

Mr. Russ, formerly from Bradley, did his practice teaching in Hope in 1966. He did graduate work on his Masters at Henderson this year and was added to the College staff.

He discussed "College Life and Finance." On finances the club was told there are 300 jobs for students on campus, ranging from lawn care to typing and these pay $60 to $80 a month for spare time work.

Governors to Be Picked in Two States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two states choose governors and scores of cities elect mayors today, deciding some contests in which Vietnam, race and the church-state relationship are issues.

Negro candidates face white candidates in Gary, Ind., and Cleveland while Boston's mayor's race features a woman candidate best known for opposing busing of Negro students to white schools.

Gary's battle for mayor between Negro Democrat Richard B. Hatcher and white Republican Joseph Radigan was accompanied by racial tensions that focused national attention on the Indiana steel city.

Election-day court decisions were necessary to clear the way for the Gary election and for the use of National Guardsmen if necessary to insure peaceful balloting.

Vietnam referenda are on the ballot in San Francisco and Cambridge, Mass., while New Yorkers vote on a $2.5 billion transportation bond issue and a proposed new state constitution that would repeal a ban on public aid to private and parochial schools.

Legislatures are being chosen in New Jersey, Virginia and Mississippi.

Gov. Roger D. Branigan of Indiana ordered National Guardsmen in the Gary area—and the state's Supreme Court later threw out Monday a lower court injunction that would have banned use of the troops to insure a peaceful election.

A three-judge federal panel concluded its consideration of election-rigging charges brought by Hatcher by ordering county officials to guarantee a fair election.

Hatcher and the Justice Department had filed separate suits charging the county's Democratic chairman conspired to remove Negroes from voting lists while adding ineligible whites.

Observers rated as a toss-up the race between Hatcher, a lawyer and city councilman, and businessman Radigan.

In Cleveland's race for mayor, Democrat Carl B. Stokes, Negro lawyer and state legislator, is slightly favored over Republican Seth Taft, member of the distinguished family that has produced a president and other notable political figures.

Boston's nonpartisan mayoralty election also is tinged with the racial issue. Louise Day Hicks, who as a school committee member opposed busing of Negroes to white schools, opposed Kevin H. White, Massa-

Brandon in Defense of State Act

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Rep. Doug Brandon of Little Rock said Monday that Act 113 of 1967 belongs in the area of industrial development and that it would be unfortunate to lose the rationality of its purpose in "nonprovable arguments about revenue losses or gains, when these losses or gains can originate in many ways."

Former Gov. Orval Faubus said last week that the act had cost the state $8 million already. The state Revenue Department later indicated that the act might have cost the state $5 million.

Brandon, who authored the act, said Monday the figures had been "drawn completely out of the air" and estimated the loss to be less than $1 million.

The act exempts industry from the 3 per cent sales tax law on machinery and equipment used in manufacturing or processing.

Brandon said similar legislation was enacted in Missouri six or seven years ago and that the lost revenue was regained in three years.

He said he told members of the House that the bill would begin returning more revenue in future years in an increasing amount although it would produce a revenue loss for two or three years.

Brandon also said that he talked with Faubus by telephone and that the former governor referred to a $4 million loss in buildings. Brandon said he then told Faubus that buildings were exempt.

ground fire northwest of Hanoi. The pilot was listed as missing in action. It was the 727th American combat plane officially reported lost over the North.

In the coastal lowlands, a Korean spokesman said, an estimated 300 North Vietnamese army regulars moved out of a hideout in the Ho Neo mountains and had been threatening Korean units for the last two weeks.

The spokesman said Korean forces pursued the Communists and caught up with them near two villages only about two miles from the Koreans' base area.

Fighting which broke out continued until about noon today, the spokesman said.

In the central highlands, entrenched North Vietnamese regulars opened up Monday afternoon with heavy small arms and automatic fire on units of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade searching an area hit by B52 bombers last Saturday.

Aided by ground reinforcements, artillery and 67 strikes by Air Force fighter-bombers, the paratroopers assaulted the fortified Communist positions. U.S. Headquarters said the reinforcements broke through the Communists' flank and overran the position, but the main force apparently had already pulled back.

Intelligence officers are predicting more bloody combat for central Vietnam now that the moonsoon rains are moving north. The forecast is based on reports of major North Vietnamese infiltration of the central jungles during the first six months of the year.

Headquarters elements of five North Vietnamese divisions have been identified in the 2nd Corps Military area, in central Vietnam, American intelligence sources said a new North Vietnamese division, the 10th, is known to be along the Cambodian-Lao border but so far has been avoiding heavy contact with U.S. troops.

In another attack Monday night, Communist mortar rounds lobbed 20 60mm mortar rounds into the positions of a U.S. infantry battalion operating near the bloodied district headquarters of Loc Ninh, 72 miles north of Saigon.

chusetts secretary of state, Mrs. Hicks sought to become the first woman mayor in the city's 337 years.

In Philadelphia, Republican Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter is given a good chance to upset Democratic Mayor James H. Tate.

Republicans also are highly hopeful of taking the Kentucky governorship for the first time in 20 years. The GOP now has 25 of the 50 governorships and holds states with 295 electoral votes.

Only 276 are needed to win the presidency and a GOP victory in Kentucky would raise the party's figures to 26 states with 304 electoral votes.

The Republican candidate in Kentucky is Louie B. Nunn, a conservative lawyer from Glasgow in Southern Kentucky. Henry Ward, former highway commissioner, is the Democratic nominee.

In Mississippi, veteran U.S. Rep. John Bell Williams, a Democrat and staunch segregationist, is expected to have no trouble rolling up a substantial margin over Republican Rubel Phillips in their race for governor.

From Phillips, Mississippians got a new sort of campaign argument—that the economic welfare of whites and Negroes is linked and one race cannot advance unless the other does too.

Phillips is a Jackson lawyer and one-time Democrat. Williams is a 20-year veteran in Congress.

Revolution Celebrated by Russia

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union celebrated its 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution today with its semiannual parade of military might through Red Square. But Western military experts spotted only four new weapons—all missiles—in the hour-long parade.

The Western experts said the new weapons included one huge intercontinental rocket at the end of the review before Lenin's tomb, one intermediate or medium-range missile, one ground-to-ground tactical missile and one navy missile.

Soviet commentators used the word "new" only once, saying a three-stage intercontinental rocket was powered by a "new, highly efficient type of propellant." But no details were given.

One intercontinental rocket displayed could be "used for orbital purposes," Moscow Television said, but such a rocket with claimed orbital capacity had been displayed in the May Day parade in 1965. The assertion was made then, and repeated today, that such rockets cannot be shot down.

The official accounts threw no light on whether the Soviet Union is testing an orbital bomb system, as U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Friday it is. During the two and a half years since the unveiling of the orbital rocket, there has been no mention here of its being tried out in any way.

Official accounts of the parade today repeated the boast that the mammoth Soviet rockets—the biggest is about 115 feet long—"can deliver nuclear warheads of tremendous power." It was also claimed that "no other army in the world has such warheads."

Moscow Television's commentator called attention to "an unusual special warhead" on one rocket which he said could destroy a large group of enemy planes in the air at a great distance from the Soviet Union.

The parade was preceded by the usual address from the Soviet defense minister, Marshal Andrei A. Grechko. As usual he attacked the United States for its part in the Vietnam war, but in general his tone was milder than usual. He also made one accusation of aggression against Israel, but said nothing about Communist China.

A letter from Adolph P. Schuman while he was viewing the couturier collections in Paris, France, gives us some interesting details. We quote... "To get the details... the length, while not greatly changed, has been considerably modified. With the exception of very few extreme couturiers, there are no more mid-skirts... the mini-skirt is finished as far as Paris is concerned. The fashionable length throughout the lines averaged at the top of the knee, with coats from mid-knee to top of the knee to 1 1/2 inches above the knee, varying with each couturier."

While we are a whole of a long way from Paris, but having just returned from Dallas spring market we agree this seems to be the length most women want. Here in our area, we seldom go to extremes fashionwise, but our customers seem to have a built-in fashion sense and in the final analysis we get with them.

Our Holiday merchandise is arriving every day. It is such fun to unpack. The glitter dresses are here. Lion Tree a branch of Jon McKinley, has sent us several styles. We particularly like the gold and silver; they are so uncluttered and yet have that dash... A cute pants-suit in gold would look very smart for at-home parties; they come in sizes from 8 to 16 and are only $30.00. Try one on...

And while you are looking ask to see their pants-dresses, try on Mr. Thomson's three-piece pants-suit. For the gal who travels, it is perfect. You can step high and wide, in and out of planes and trains and when you are standing still, it looks just like a skirt.

There are more things to describe and the space is gone... how about seeing for yourself. The place is...

VICTORY HD CLUB MEETS
From pictures to books to a Thanksgiving menu, many interests of the homemaker were brought to prominence at the Victory Extension Homemakers Club meeting on November 2 at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Jerry Brown. After the president, Mrs. James Smith, had called the meeting to order, the hostess read the devotion and all sang "You Are My Sunshine" under the direction of Mrs. Mary Smith. The Homemakers Prayer was voiced in unison.

Mrs. Smith gave a very interesting lesson, "Health and Medical Problems." Seven members, one visitor, Mrs. Jack Willett, and 3 children were present. The members answered the roll call by telling, "Why my pictures got hung." Mrs. Avery McKinney read a Thanksgiving poem, "The Bill of Fare."

In fact, Mrs. McKinney had several parts in the activities of the meeting. She also taught the lesson, "The Importance of Good Books in the Home and Learning How to be a Good Listener." Then, she was in charge of the recreation and directed the playing of a unique art game. The results were that all decided there were no artists present.

For the eyeopener the guest, Mrs. Willett, showed how to make a little felt mitten from a hair clip, felt and sequins. The surprise package was won by the hostess, who drew the lucky number.

Fruit cocktail cake and cold drinks were served for refreshments. The next meeting will be Thursday, December 7 in the home of Mrs. Clayborne Rowe.

S.O.S. IS ALL SYSTEMS "GO"
Dear Helen: Three questions: 1. We've started an S.O.S. (Stamp Out Steadying) club. Any suggestions about parties, etc.? We already have two good-type adult advisors. They help, but don't boss. 2. When can we get more buttons? 3. What states sent the most orders for buttons, and please print what some of the kids said about the ideas. --SOS CLUB EAST

Dear SOS East: 1. Suggestions? Why not name a new entertainment committee each month so that everybody gets a whack at planning parties? They can be snow trips, scavenger hunts, car rallies, barbecues, fun and fund raising--you name it.

Or how about a weekly dance? You SOSers might contact local churches. I'll bet at least one would go along with a Friday night party idea... especially if you have "good-type adult advisors." (Don't let 'em get away--they're worth their weight in buttons!). 2. A new batch of SOS buttons arrived this week. We're filling back orders as fast as we can, and I urge you to get your new orders in right away. When these are gone, I may have to close down the Bottel Button Factory or else get a bigger house! Have been so deluged with dimes I could have started my own private mint, except that all and more went for handling charges.

3. Greatest number of orders came from Texas, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and California.

Here are some comments:
Dear Helen: Thanks ever so much for being so understanding of teen needs. Not only is the SOS button symbolic, but a marvelous new fad. --LUV YA P.S. Please rush the button as I need it to give the guys a

No Traditional Campaign Buttons
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indianapolis Mayor John J. Barton's supporters were without those traditional campaign buttons in Tuesday's election.

The campaign aide ordering the buttons told the manufacturer that they should read Barton only.

The maker followed the directions to the letter.

The buttons say "Barton Only."

They won't be used for fear that voters might get the idea that mayor didn't want to be associated with the remainder of the Democratic slate.

Pagodas
Pagodas are religious structures. In India, a pagoda may be an addition to a temple or a temple itself. In China, it is often a memorial building.

Would you like to learn how to make jewelry from paper, paste, and a little paint? It's really possible; all it takes is a little imagination. The articles of jewelry you can make will make excellent Christmas gifts and would perk up last year's basic dress.

Sandra Propps, Assistant Extension Home Economist, shows articles which may be made from inexpensive materials.

A papier-mache jewelry workshop will be held two days -- November 13 and November 16. There will be two different sessions each day for the public's convenience. The afternoon session will be from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m.; the night session will be from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. The meetings will take place in the Agricultural Extension Service Conference Room in the Hempstead County Courthouse.

Materials needed for the workshop are: Art paint brush, scissors (for cutting paper), and a small fee to cover cost of other supplies to be used. If you are interested in participating in the workshop, call the Agricultural Extension Office--PR7-5771.

Defends Stamp Withdrawal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Welfare Commissioner Len Blaylock said Monday that the food stamp loan program for Phillips County was withdrawn because guidelines were "flagrantly violated."

"Only two per cent of the $75,300 of federal money spent in Phillips County went to persons the agreement was designed to serve," Blaylock said. "Twenty-eight per cent of the money went to persons already on welfare and this amounted to a person receiving welfare from two different agencies."

Blaylock had previously recommended to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller the $100,000 supplemental food stamp loan program for Phillips County be vetoed. The program was vetoed by Rockefeller on Oct. 3.

"For any person who doubts the validity of these and other statistics supporting my recommendation to Gov. Rockefeller to cancel the supplement, I invite them to inspect the records and files in the state welfare office," Blaylock said.

Couldn't Keep Card From Round

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Neither rain nor sleet nor snow nor hail—much less Iron Curtains and language barriers—could keep a little girl's sympathy card from its rounds.

When Adrian Lee, a 12-year-old music pupil from Atlanta, read that Russian composer Dmitri Shostakovich had broken his leg, she sat down and wrote him a note.

"Moscow, Russia," was the whole address, but she committed her efforts to the mails. After all, she was a particular admirer of his.

When the reply came about six weeks later, it was a photograph of the 61-year-old composer, inscribed in Russian, "Best wishes, Dmitri Shostakovich," it read.

Cops! Was the iron too hot for that pretty, frilly new blouse? Have you forgotten how the label suggested to care for that "acrylic" garment?

The answers to facts about care and characteristics of the four-natural fibers and sixteen man-made fibers used in ready-made clothing may be found in the Agricultural Extension bulletin, "Fiber Personalities and Fabric Care."

The Textile Fiber Identification Act passed in 1960 was set up to protect you, the consumer. It requires that every fiber in the fabric be identified by its family name. The percentage of each fiber must be listed in the order of its predominance by weight.

How can this help you? A garment can be ruined if incorrect care methods are used. By knowing the fiber content, a person can determine the care of a fabric as well as determine the lasting qualities of a garment.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "PBL," the experimental series underwritten by a Ford Foundation grant and broadcast Sunday night on a special network of educational stations across the nation, devoted all of its time to a "black-white dialogue." It was touchy, controversial and undoubtedly stepped on toes, but it succeeded in shedding some light as well as heat.

The program set the stage by a recapitulation of political campaigns where race is an issue—in Gary, Ind., Cleveland, Ohio, and Boston, Mass. Then it moved into the high point of the program: a filmed "confrontation" of Chicago Negroes and whites. There opinion, emotion-charged, ranged from hostile threats by Black Power exponents to one angry white woman who exploded in exasperation with, "I want white power."

A vocal, tough-talking Negro, Russ Meek, earlier had done the narration of a film made in the Chicago slums under his direction. His fury and hatred spewed out then and even more during the "confrontation." One Negro woman who had started with calm reason was so stung by a white woman's talk of integration that she retorted, "I've been integrating too long. I've got these freckles and red hair as a result of therapy of my great grandmother..."

While the talk, often jumbled as many spoke at one time, was more emotional than reasoned, the confrontation was exciting television.

Actually, neither Negroes nor whites made good cases for their causes. Immediately afterward, Harvard research psychiatrist Robert Coles presented his "analysis" of the session. He found the present Negro movement "not so different from the Irish 50 or 75 years ago," and compared the Negro revolt to "the breaking away as a child does when it grows up and goes away from his family."

The final portion of the program was devoted to a play,

"Day of Absence," performed by a company of Negroes in white face—a minstrel show in reverse. This told in bitter, broad satire, the calamity that befell a Southern town when suddenly all its Negroes disappeared. No mental jobs were performed, and it painted an ugly picture of incompetent, foolish whites. Although it made its point very quickly, the play went on and on.

There were occasional breaks in the program for local station identification, and twice there was a break called "a word for the consumer." These breaks were in the form of commercials, but one told viewers that the least expensive pain killer was as effective as the expensive kind and the other that long cigarettes contain harmful ingredients. They were the sole glimmers of humor in the two and one-half hours, and the humor in them was certainly on the skimpy side.

The program was too long—the play could have been cut sharply—and tended to be heavy-handed. But it was an interesting, ambitious beginning. And it certainly was not bland.

NBC will cancel "Maya," the child-oriented action series, filmed in India some time in February. The show suffered from low ratings.

Northside of FS Is Grid Leader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fort Smith Northside Coach Bill Stancil is bound to spend this week reminding his Grizzlies of their situation about this time last season.
Northside was ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press Arkansas high school football poll, as they are this year, and was beaten by North Little Rock.
The Grizzlies play at North Little Rock Friday night.
Ironically, North Little Rock lost to Little Rock Hall both this year and last and Northside beat Hall 14-7 both years.
The top eight positions in the poll remain the same as last week. Little Rock Hall, Texarkana, Springdale, North Little Rock, Little Rock Central, Conway and El Dorado follow Northside in that order.
Northside received all 13 first place votes.
West Memphis moved from tenth to ninth this week and Malvern dropped a notch to tenth. West Memphis beat Helena 13-6 last week while Malvern edged Benton 7-0.
Texarkana and Springdale have been running three-four in the poll for the past couple of weeks and they meet Friday night at Texarkana. Both are undefeated in the AAA Western Division. Each has lost to Fort Smith Northside.
Conway drew 12 first place votes and continues atop the Class AA rankings. West Memphis, No. 2, swapped places

- with Malvern.
Fordyce is still top-ranked in Class A but Berryville moved into the No. 2 spot and Nashville dropped to third. Nashville lost last week to Class AA Magnolia 19-14 while Berryville defeated Alma 20-7.
Stamps, Gillett and Gentry, all victorious last week, continue one-two-three in Class B.
Here are the results of the poll with first place votes and team records in parentheses and total points at right:

Compromise Hopeful on Middle East

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Western hopes that a compromise resolution circulated by the United States might break the Middle East stalemate in the United Nations were dimmed today by Soviet rejection of the proposal.
Soviet sources said the American plan, which calls for positive action by both Israel and the Arabs, was unacceptable because it gives the Arabs less support than an earlier draft proposed by six African, Asian and Latin American members of the Security Council.
It could not be learned whether the United States would modify the wording of its draft to meet Communist objections or withdraw it. A British spokesman predicted that in any case it was a "fair bet" that the 15-nation council would meet on the Arab-Israeli conflict before the week is over.
Informed sources said the American plan, like that of the six nations, calls on Israel to withdraw from Arab soil seized in the June war. But it also seeks action by the Arabs to end their 19-year-old state of belligerence against Israel.
The informants said the draft also authorized sending a U.N. representative to the Middle East to try to work out a settlement but did not bind him to specific instructions.
The United States began circulating its plan after the big powers had held weekend consultations with Arab and Israeli leaders.

The major powers took over the problem after the 10 nonpermanent members of the council reported Friday that they had failed to agree among themselves on council action.
U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg was reported to have consulted on Saturday and Sunday with Lord Caradon, Britain's U.N. representative; King Hussein of Jordan, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad of Jordan.
Eban flew to London and met with British Foreign Secretary George Brown. He was due back in New York today.
Attempts by the 10 nonpermanent council members broke down after they tried to reach a compromise between two rival plans.
One, drawn up by Argentina, Brazil, Ethiopia, India, Mali and Nigeria, advanced specific principles for a settlement and ordered the U.N. representative to work out a solution along those lines.
The other, put forward by Canada and Denmark, also called for a U.N. representative, but his assignment was couched in terms that the Arabs found too vague for their liking.
Israel meanwhile wrote the Security Council reporting eight attacks between Oct. 24 and Nov. 5 by "armed marauders" from Jordan and charged the Jordanian government was giving active support and aid to the Arab saboteurs.

From Impala, world's most popular car
The silent ride of quality for '68

Now there are more good reasons than ever why people should prefer Impala. Like all regular Chevrolets, it's even further ahead for '68!

A more hushed ride
Among other things, we refined and improved everything about the ride to make it surprisingly smooth and silent. Just try it and see. You'll find that our engineers used electronic computers to pinpoint places where noises might develop, and installed a special network of rubber cushions to keep squeaks and rattles from disturbing your comfort. We doubt that you've ever driven a car that moves so noiselessly.

The look you like best
People have always preferred Impala's looks. So for 1968 we made it even more beautiful. We gave the grille a more massive and masculine look. We gave the hood sweeping new lines and tucked the wipers neatly out of sight. We designed the taillights right into the rear bumper for a look you're sure to like.

We owe you the best
We figure we owe people more than other car makers do. Because it was people who put us in first place in the first place, and who keep us there year after year. We appreciate it.

The Catch-All Crime

Sassing a policeman. Using obscene language in a church. Clanging a school bell in the dead of night.

Each of these acts, even though different in nature, has at one time or another been held to be the same offense: "breach of the peace."

In fact, every crime used to be described as a breach of the peace. Gradually, over the years, emphasis has shifted to the special categories of crime, like "murder" or "arson" or "theft."

But it is still true today that, when an act does not fit into a special category, it may nevertheless be punishable under the general heading of breach of the peace—the catch-all crime.

Being only a misdemeanor, breach of the peace is often thought of as a pretty minor matter. True, the penalty is minor. But basic constitutional issues may be involved.

Such as: When does a lawful demonstration turn into an unlawful breach of the peace? When does lawful persuasion turn into an unlawful breach of the peace?

In one case, a member of a religious sect offended two pedestrians in the street by trying to sell them his controversial literature.

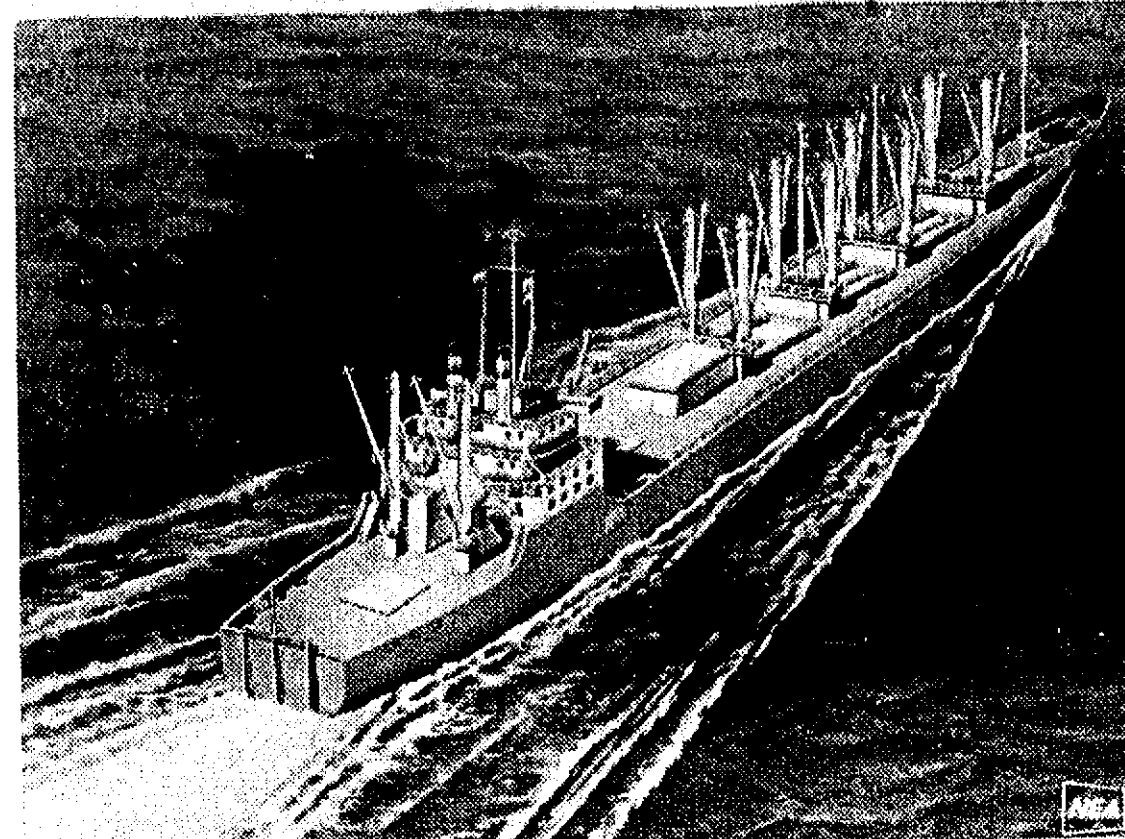

However, when charged with a breach of the peace, he was exonerated on the ground that he had used no force, and had gone away when rebuffed. The court said the preaching of religious doctrine is given broad leeway under the First Amendment.

But in another case, religious zealots invaded a hotel on a Sunday morning, pounded on various doors, and insisted on talking to people who wanted only to sleep.

This time, the court decided that persuasion had gone too far. Finding the defendants guilty of a breach of the peace, the court said, "We are aware of no decision that freedom of religion carries with it a freedom to disturb the peace of others in the manner shown here."

In short, breach of the peace marks out a vital boundary between one man's liberty and another man's tranquility. It is society's device for guarding that invisible sense of security for which all governments are instituted.

Bridge experts use numerous special artificial conventions for one reason and one reason only. That reason is that they want to win, and they know that they can't win without them. Everyone needs an ace showing method. Blackwood is the most popular but there are others that have one thing in common. Each one is better than no convention at all.

In response to no-trump, we all use some artificial set of responses, and against no-trump we need some artificial method to get into the bidding.

The most popular of these is the Landy convention, named after Alvin Landy, the man who ran the American Contract Bridge League for the last 20 years. National tournaments aren't going to be the same without Alvin around to keep things going and to keep everybody happy, or at least as happy as possible.

The Landy convention is a simple one. Specifically, when an opponent opens one no-trump, you bid two clubs to show both major suits. In the back-in position you don't need much of a hand to make this bid.

The Landy convention made it possible for today's North to reopen safely after East's no-trump was passed around to him. South responded with two spades and proceeded to make four odd with some mild help from the defense.

Declarer won the club lead with his jack, returned to dummy with the ace and led a low heart. East rose with the king and proceeded to play ace and one spade. South won in his hand, led an other trump to dummy's king, ruffed East's ace of hearts, discarded one diamond on the king of clubs and finally conceded one diamond trick.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Exercise Is Valuable To Osteoporosis Victim

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What are the symptoms of osteoporosis? Is it inherited? Is there any cure?

A—In mild cases there are no symptoms. When the disease is advanced there may be spontaneous fracture of the involved bones, usually a vertebra and, as a result, some deformity. This is often the first indication of osteoporosis or demineralization of the bones.

When a vertebra collapses there may or may not be severe pain. Because the victim often has an exaggerated idea of the seriousness of this condition he may demand immobilization in a brace or cast for a prolonged period. Unfortunately, this causes an atrophy of disuse in the bones and may aggravate the condition.

The disease is frequently seen in women who are in or past the menopause. It may also be caused by a calcium deficiency, or sedentary habits. The only hereditary forms—osteogenesis imperfecta and Ehlers-Danlos syndrome—are diseases of childhood.

In women who are past 50, female hormones, fluorides and calcium salts are used to treat this disease. These measures should be supplemented by a program of gradually increasing exercise.

Q—What is myasthenia gravis? What causes it? What is the treatment?

A—This is a deficiency disease in which the body lacks acetylcholine, the chemical needed to make the muscles contract. Weakness and easy fatigability are the chief symptoms. Although the underlying cause is not known, infections, emotional stress, alcohol, loss of sleep and menstruation may aggravate or trigger an attack. Spontaneous remissions often occur and this makes it difficult to evaluate the results of treatment.

Neostigmine and pyridostigmine will control but will not cure the disease. Many patients have been markedly improved by removal of the thymus. In some victims who do not respond to the usual drugs or the operation, hydrocortisone gives good results.

Hope Girl Scouts Hold Birthday Party In Honor Of Juliette Low

A birthday party and Halloween masquerade were held Tuesday, November 31 in the Little Hut in observance of the birthday of Juliette Gordon Low, the founder of Girl Scouting in the United States. Mrs. Low devoted the last decade of her life to furthering the international friendship aspects of the Girl Scout movement. She helped to establish the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts which today has member associations in more than 65 countries of the free world.

Mrs. Kenneth Petre, Chairman of the Meloyville Neighborhood of the Conifer Council and the troop leaders, assisted by members of the Senior Troop, directed the children through the party as each child told what she would like to be when she grows up. Mrs. Gail Sinyard acted as Mrs. Low and received the children's donations on behalf of the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. Refreshments were served to all following the party.

GOPs Gearing for Democrat Soft Spots

By HARRY KELLY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans are gearing up extensive surveys to target soft spots in Democratic ranks for a $1 million GOP assault in next year's battle for control of the House.

The aim, as explained by GOP strategists, is to pinpoint lackluster Democratic congressmen who get low personality—or recognition—ratings from the voters back home and thus may be vulnerable to an attack by a well-known Republican.

The strategy, said Rep. Bob Wilson, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, involves a shift of emphasis from a political seek-and-destroy strategy based on statistics to one zeroing in on personalities.

The GOP group previously channeled its funds and efforts at "target districts" where Democrats had won their House seats by no more than five per cent of the vote.

To plot the 1968 Republican assault on Democratic House control, "We're getting set up to conduct surveys in depth far beyond what we've ever done," said Wilson, a California Republican.

These surveys, he said in an interview, will be designed to measure a Democrat's potential weakness with the voters by gathering this kind of information about him:

"How many newsletters does he send back home; does he make a television-radio report to his district; is he doing his homework; how well known is he in his district?"

While trying to locate weak Democrats, Wilson said, the GOP group is conducting a talent search to find strong Republicans to throw a gauntlet at them.

"It's all based on the old political saw, you can't beat somebody with a nobody," he said.

And in this, the Republicans acknowledge, the name's the thing.

Rep. Robert B. "Bob" Mathias, who won the Olympic decathlon in 1948 and 1952, was "better known in his district than the seven-term Democrat he defeated" when Mathias won a California seat in the House in 1954.

Marynell Branch, Ann Lee, Kim Geist, Marilyn Harris, Betty Ruth Honeycutt, Barbara Jackson, Peggy Lehman, Janet McCann, Anita McCauley, Sandra McFarland, Patti Murphy, Mary Jane Reysenga, Debra Robinson, Thida Roy, Cindy Schneider, Debbie Stuart, Karen Wiggins and Mary Young.

Senior Troop No. 6, Mrs. Frank Somers, Advisor; members: Kath Evans, Judy Pettit, Conde Hendrix, Cheryl Tye, Pam Butler, Candy Harris, Ginny Gardner, Susan McCann, Brenda Melroy, Betty Morris, Martha Mosley, Joanne Reynolds, Sharon Rogers, Jenny Tolleson and Gail Tye.

1966, Wilson said.

But the Republicans insist they are not confining their talent hunt to peering at old movies in hopes of finding more George Murphys, Ronald Reagans or Shirley Temple Blacks, or scanning Olympic records for another Mathias.

"We're really out on a talent search for outstanding guys," he said. "We're not going to put our money on the line until we know the capabilities of the candidate."

The GOP congressional committee says it now has about $500,000 in its war chest and expects to have $1 million by campaign time.

But the Republicans acknowledge privately that wresting control of the House from the Democrats is easier to predict than to do.

"It's going to be hard," said one strategist. "Most of the soft touches were beaten last year. But I think we have a 50-50 chance. Picking up 31 seats shouldn't be too difficult."

Democrats now outnumber the GOP by 61 members, 247 to 186. There are two vacancies in the 435-member House resulting from the death of J. Arthur Younger, R-Calif., and the exclusion of Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.

Children, Parents Very Different

KANSAS CITY (AP)—It is not so much the difference in age but the differences in culture and environment that separate young people from adults nowadays, a national conferee of Camp Fire Girls leaders was told Monday.

"Children today are a very different breed of cat" from their parents, said Dr. Thomas Bennett, director of graduate studies at George Williams College, Downer's Grove, Ill. Bennett is a father of six.

"Most of us grew up in a dramatically different economy," he said. "Scarcity was a fact of life. Depression was not a psychological term but an economic fact."

In contrast, Bennett said, the youngsters of today live in an economy of abundance, and thrift is an alien subject.

"We need to revise our assumptions and change our skills," he added.

Surprised After 26 Years Free

HILLSBORO, Mo. (AP)—James Harvey must have been surprised Monday when Jefferson County Sheriff Walter Buerger arrested him as Joe Fortier, the man who escaped 26 years ago from the state penitentiary at Walla Walla, Wash. But then Buerger was probably surprised too when a routine check of fingerprints with the FBI produced the match. The 33-year-old Harvey had been arrested in the theft of building materials.

Jobless Rate Highest in Two Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate rose to 4.3 per cent last month, the highest point in two years, the Labor Department said today.

Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics declined to say whether the rise in unemployment indicated an economic lag, but he said a smaller-than-usual increase in employment and a slight drop in the average work week in October "were certainly disappointing."

The unemployment rate was up two-tenths of one per cent from September and up five-tenths from August for the biggest two-month rise in seven years.

Average hourly earnings were $2.72 in October, up one cent from September and 12 cents from a year earlier.

The jobless rate for men rose from 2.3 per cent to 2.5 per cent last month. The rate for teenagers went up from 13.8 per cent to 15.1 per cent. The women's unemployment rate declined slightly to 4.8 per cent.

The over-all jobless rate for white workers was up from 3.6 per cent to 3.8 per cent. The unemployment rate for non-whites, mostly Negroes, rose from 7.9 per cent to 8.8 per cent.

More Snow Dumped on Lakes Region

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wintry squalls dumped more snow on parts of the Great Lakes region today while easterly winds brought more snow to the Detroit area.

Three inches of snow fell at Buffalo, N.Y., during the night, thickening the snow blanket there to 7 inches before dawn. Sault Ste. Marie, in eastern Upper Michigan, measured another inch of snow, giving it a 5-inch total.

Generally, however, new accumulations were mere flurries compared with the knee-deep snows which pelted sections of Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York State Sunday and early Monday.

The cold snap which pushed the mercury down to record lows in 10 states Monday again frosted parts of the Deep South. The temperatures settled to 30 degrees at Atlanta before daylight.

Opera Star Looks to Heavenly Stars for Guidance in Career

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Krause is an opera star who looks to the heavenly stars for career guidance.

The brilliant young Finnish baritone, who received an ovation at his Metropolitan Opera debut this season, is a firm believer in the occult sciences, particularly astrology.

"Both my wife and I have studied it for years," he said. "It may be psychological, it may be hogwash, but I have found that for me it works. It works positively, and it works negatively."

Krause, who said astrology had helped him to give up smoking, tries to arrange his concerts and recordings — he's recognized as possibly the world's finest interpreter of the songs of Sibelius, the Finnish composer — when his horoscope is most favorable.

"If that can't be done," he shrugged — "I go ahead and make the engagement anyway, but it's an inch harder to do it at all."

Tom, 33, brown-haired and green-eyed, studied to be a psychiatrist, but gave up a medical career after spending a year taking voice lessons in Vienna.

"To find a road to my own essential being, I found I had to become a singer," he said. "It

Thinks U.S. Can Keep Up All Projects

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara declared today the nation can fight aggression abroad and still combat poverty, urban decay and social injustice at home.

The Pentagon chief said the nation is strong enough materially and technologically to do both.

But, in what appeared to be indirect criticism of Congress, McNamara said "what we may lack is the will power."

His comments came in a speech prepared for the 43rd convention of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

"We can curb aggression abroad," McNamara asserted. "And we can meet our pressing social problems here at home. And we can do both at the same time if we will use widely existing institutions and available resources."

McNamara cited as evidence three socially oriented programs currently being administered by the Pentagon: The move to force rental property owners to admit negro service men; a project to educate rejected draftees; and an effort to help men leaving the service to make a productive transition to civilian life.

He cast the Defense Department as a potentially powerful contributor "to the solution of the social problems wracking our nation."

The open-housing program has moved slowly and McNamara said he would have to share responsibility for it.

By ANTHONY DE NIGRO
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If you've been wondering how your name got on the latest "junk mail" list, you might ask your state motor vehicle department.

An Associated Press survey shows that most states sell their lists — at prices ranging from $70,000 in New York to $8 in West Virginia. Some apparently give them away.

One firm, R. L. Polk & Co. of Detroit, appears to be practically the only customer for the lists and uses them as what must be one of the largest reservoirs in the country for direct mail advertisers.

Polk won't say how much it pays for them — or how much it makes on them — but the survey showed it gets the bulk for a total of not much more than $500,000.

Disclosures of the sale of official public records for commercial use has stirred invasion of privacy controversies in some parts of the country. At least two citizens have gone into court about it.

Most motor vehicle department officials interviewed in the survey considered the sale routine. Typical was the reaction in North Carolina, which sold Polk 2 million names and addresses for $36,000 this year.

"By law our records are open to the public unless they are specifically declared confidential and I guess that's the statute under which we've been proceeding," said Miss Foy Ingram, the North Carolina registration director.

Polk is a 97-year-old firm which also publishes 1,400 city directories. "We do not invade anyone's privacy," said Alvin Kropp, Polk's senior vice president. "As business statisticians and publishers, we gathered public information and refine and publish such facts and figures which are set out in open public records."

The AP survey found that Polk buys or trades for most of the 95 million names and addresses of auto registrants directly through the state capitols at prices apparently dependent on how much the particular state thinks its list is worth.

Polk even has the list of states which say they don't sell them. These are Illinois, Alaska, South Dakota, Kentucky, Washington and Washington, D.C.

New York State's $70,000 a year is the highest price Polk pays for one list. California, which has the biggest motor vehicle population in the country, gets $47,000. Rural Alabama gets $52,000 while auto state Michigan gets $1,200. South Carolina charges $75. Wisconsin gets $120. All sell to Polk.

Shriver May Quit If OEO Money Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal antipoverty chief Sargent Shriver threatens to quit his post if Congress slashes the budget of his Office of Economic Opportunity too sharply.

Shriver set no figure but appeared to reject as inadequate the $1.2 billion figure some Republicans have proposed for OEO this fiscal year. The administration has asked $2 billion for antipoverty projects and last year Congress authorized nearly $1.7 billion.

If funds are cut to the point "that you can't do anything substantial," Shriver said Monday, "it would be a delusion to the general public and I do not think it would be advisable to continue a fraud."

His comments came in a Columbia Broadcasting System interview.

The House this week takes up OEO's authorization legislation amid predictions a Republican and Southern Democratic coalition may have the votes to push through major cuts in antipoverty spending.

1st Killing Frost Here Nov. 7

Last Saturday, Nov. 7, brought the first killing frost of the season to southwest Arkansas with an official reading of 27 degrees at the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station.

This is an average date for the last 10 years, the earliest killing frost being Oct. 20 with 32 degrees in 1966, and the latest Nov. 20 with 29 degrees in 1964. The Star posts the official killing-frost data from the Experiment Station in its ABC Circulation Book, and here is the 10-year record:

1967—Nov. 4, 27 degrees
1966—Oct. 20, 32 degrees
1965—Oct. 25, 27 degrees
1964—Nov. 20, 29 degrees
1963—Nov. 14, 23 degrees
1962—Nov. 4, 30 degrees
1961—Oct. 27, 31 degrees
1960—Nov. 11, 22 degrees
1959—Nov. 6, 25 degrees
1958—Nov. 7, 32 degrees (presumed killing frost but not verified)

Riot Probers Turn to Tennessee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate probers, whose investigation of urban rioting dealt first with a Texas campus uprising, turn next to a disorder near two predominantly Negro colleges in Nashville, Tenn.

Nashville Mayor Beverly Briley was scheduled as the first witness as the Senate investigations subcommittee renewed today its hearings.

The rioting in the vicinity of Fisk University and Tennessee Agricultural and Industrial University broke out in April shortly after Nashville speeches by Black Power firebrand Stokely Carmichael, former chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

The Nashville riot, marked by shooting, looting and burning, was linked to SNCC activities by city Police Capt. John A. Sorace in testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee last August.

The investigations subcommittee, in four days of hearings on a gun battle last May between Houston police and students at Texas Southern University, similarly were told the riot was preceded by agitation by SNCC members.

Sorace testified before the Judiciary Committee at its hearings on a bill to make it a federal crime to go from one state to another with intent to incite a riot.

The House passed the bill last summer, but the Judiciary Committee has taken no action on it.

Sorace said about 90 per cent of the SNCC membership in Nashville was made up of people from out of town.

$52 Million Worth U.S. Pork Barrel Now Before Senate

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate this week begins considering $52 million worth of pork barrel projects that could carry an ultimate price tag of $4.1 billion.

The $52 million — included in a $4.7 billion package of public works bills — is the first-year cost of construction starts, new planning starts and the extension of planning projects begun in previous years.

The ultimate cost of those is $4.1 billion — and it will swell the total commitment for pork barrel projects planned or under construction to $15.2 billion.

The dictionary defines pork barrel as a government project yielding rich patronage benefits. Included are the dams, power projects, levee work and harbor construction so dear to a congressman's vote-getting heart.

For a Congress that has talked economy, the final bill is a huge escalation of comparatively modest administration proposals.

President Johnson recommended nine new construction starts that would have cost $7.4 million in the fiscal year that began July 1. Their cost on completion years hence would have totaled nearly $153 million.

The House rejected 4 projects, but added 16 new starts of its own. The 1968 cost of the proposed House projects — $5.5 million. Ultimate cost — $93 million.

The Senate accepted the 21 proposals from the House, restored President Johnson's 4 and added 25 more of its own. Cost of the proposed Senate projects in 1968 — $12 million. Ultimate cost — $324.5 million.

Thus as the pork barrel bill now stands, there are 50 new construction starts with an eventual cost of $770.66 million.

Johnson also proposed a score of new planning starts, the step preliminary to actual land acquisition and construction. These would cost just under $3 million in fiscal 1968, but final costs would be $335.5 million.

Each house then added 11 new planning starts. In 1968, the House starts would cost $905,000 and the Senate's $6.19 million. Their respective completion costs are potentially $62 million and $244 million.

On the 80 carryover planning projects from previous years, the bill provides $16.7 million in new planning funds — with a completion cost of $2.8 billion.

Despite the big slice of pork, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., told the Senate its Appropriations Committee "has deferred the initiation of many worthy projects" because of the Vietnam war.

And Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, said that choosing projects to include "is like trying to decide which of your own children should be helped first."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., on the other hand, called the bill "a travesty of rational economic management and economy in government."

Poppy Sale Prizes Are Awarded

Kitty Reeves teamed with Debbie Barham to win the $3 first place prize awarded by Mrs. Joe Jones, Poppy Chairman, to the leading Poppy Day Salesladies. Their collection amounted to $30.10. Debbie Robinson and Connie Johnson were the runners-up in sales.

Others in the group of Poppy Day salesladies were: Patti Murphy, Kathy Keller, Anne Grimes, Marynell Branch, Cindy Snyder, Cathy Feild, Juane Reynolds, Susan McCain, and Carla Turner.

The American Legion Auxiliary, Leslie Huddleston Unit 12, expresses appreciation to the Hope Star and KXAR for publicizing the sale, to the volunteer workers from the Auxiliary, its Junior members, and the Girl Scouts, and to the general public for responding so generously.

A total of $242.60 was netted. For every poppy sold 3 cents go to disabled veterans in Arkansas, 35 per cent to the Auxiliary state department headquarters for rehabilitation, child welfare, and the Christmas Gift Shops operated for veterans by the Auxiliary, and the remaining money is used locally for child welfare and community service projects.

Shannon reminded the dealers that one year ago they were working to support Traffic Safety Laws, which were passed by the last legislature. "The new Licensing Act will be of benefit to the public. Auto license will be purchased on a staggered basis. Up-to-date computer equipment will provide rapid accurate mail purchase of tags," Shannon said.

Co. Herbert W. Reinhardt, Coordination Chairman of Department of Revenues, discussed many uses the department's computers would provide. Col. Reinhardt said, "Our computers will be tied in with the State Police. A State Policeman anywhere in the state can query our system by giving a license number, in less than 30 seconds all information on the vehicle is transmitted back to the State Policeman." "Shortly, our system will be tied in with FBI in Washington and will be available to every county in the state," he said.

NADA Director from Arkansas, John Russell, of North Little Rock, told the group what the car buying public expects from them. He said, "Advertise your product in clear and accurate terms. Price your product where a reasonable profit can be made. Allow a reasonable price on used vehicles offered in trade. Inspect and service all vehicles prior to delivery. Perform all warranty work customers are entitled to. Perform service work in a manner to assure customers value received. Give customers courteous and respectful treatment." He continued by saying, "If dealers would follow these suggestions everything else would fall into place, their business would increase, along with the image of the industry."

Fighting Is Heavy in Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy fighting was reported today in South Vietnam's jungled central highlands and along the coastal lowlands. It could signal the start of new dry season offensives by the Communists in the two areas.

Troops of South Korea's White Horse Division reported killing 113 North Vietnamese in fighting Monday and today near the division base headquarters in the lowlands 205 miles northeast of Saigon. Korean casualties were reported light.

In a series of sharp clashes in the central highlands 300 miles north of Saigon, 20 American paratroopers and 18 North Vietnamese troops were killed. The units of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade also reported 27 men wounded.

As the ground fighting picked up, U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers took advantage of a break in the northeast monsoons Monday and flew through heavy Communist defenses to give North Vietnam's heartland its heaviest pounding in a week.

The American raiders attacked the sprawling Gia Thung military storage area three miles northeast of the center of Hanoi for the first time in the war, shot down two MIG-17s during a strike on the Kep airfield 38 miles northeast of the capital, and attacked a vehicle repair plant nine miles north of Hanoi and the Hanoi transfer station for the first time since last May.

Although Hanoi claimed five U.S. planes were shot down, the U.S. Command reported only one loss, an F105 Thunderchief it said was brought down by

Car Dealers Hold Area Meet Here

Harry Shannon of Star City, President of Arkansas Automobile Dealers Association, conducted an area meeting for new car dealers in Hope on Tuesday, November 7. Shannon addressed the dealers on "The Permanent Automobile Licensing Act of 1967." He described it as modern legislation to meet the needs of 825,000 vehicle owners in Arkansas.

Shannon reminded the dealers that one year ago they were working to support Traffic Safety Laws, which were passed by the last legislature. "The new Licensing Act will be of benefit to the public. Auto license will be purchased on a staggered basis. Up-to-date computer equipment will provide rapid accurate mail purchase of tags," Shannon said.

Co. Herbert W. Reinhardt, Coordination Chairman of Department of Revenues, discussed many uses the department's computers would provide. Col. Reinhardt said, "Our computers will be tied in with the State Police. A State Policeman anywhere in the state can query our system by giving a license number, in less than 30 seconds all information on the vehicle is transmitted back to the State Policeman." "Shortly, our system will be tied in with FBI in Washington and will be available to every county in the state," he said.

NADA Director from Arkansas, John Russell, of North Little Rock, told the group what the car buying public expects from them. He said, "Advertise your product in clear and accurate terms. Price your product where a reasonable profit can be made. Allow a reasonable price on used vehicles offered in trade. Inspect and service all vehicles prior to delivery. Perform all warranty work customers are entitled to. Perform service work in a manner to assure customers value received. Give customers courteous and respectful treatment." He continued by saying, "If dealers would follow these suggestions everything else would fall into place, their business would increase, along with the image of the industry."

Factors That Are Eyed by Politicians

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the political-minded with an eye to 1968, here are factors to watch for in the outcome of today's elections:

1. The extent of reaction among white voters to the riots and urban disorders of last summer. This could show up in other elections as well as those where Negroes are candidates.

2. The extent to which Negroes, registered in increasing numbers, vote and how they vote.

There are some 200,000 Negroes registered in Mississippi. Will they turn out and vote for a Republican for governor against an old-line Democrat?

Watch the Negro wards in Louisville, if the Kentucky contest for governor is close, these could be key votes.

3. Any indications of the much-reported popular turn against President Johnson and specifically against the Vietnam war.

Republican gains in large cities where party lines are not chopped up by racial issues could be significant. And there are referenda in San Francisco and Cambridge, Mass., on Vietnam.

Objection to School Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The plaintiffs in the Altheimer school desegregation case filed objections Monday in federal District Court to a progress report filed recently by the Altheimer School Board.

The plaintiffs asked Federal Judge J. Smith Henley to require a "truly significant" amount of faculty desegregation in the Altheimer School District beginning in the second semester of the current school year.

The School Board said in its report last week that one of the 43 Negro teachers was assigned to the white schools and that four of the 27 white teachers were assigned to Negro schools.
